CANFIELD GAMBLING CASE WILL BE CARRIED UP.

sie Won't Go to Jall, His Lawyer Says-But Secret Inquiry Might Be Resumed To-day Jerome Says He Found Three Out of Four Selzed Fare Boxes Crooked

Justice Scott decided yesterday that Jesse Lewisohn was guilty of contumacious contempt of court in refusing to answer the question whether he had ever been in Richard A. Canfield's gambling house. The Justice dismissed his writs of habeas corpus and certiorari and remanded him to the custody of the Sheriff.

In brief, Justice Scott holds that the question put to the witness was perfectly proper and should have been answered; that Justice Wyatt has the right to hold to secie: hearing and to adjudge Lewisohn in contempt for refusing to answer questions put to him thereat, and that the witness cannot claim the protection of the Federal Constitution in refusing to tell whether he had ever been in Canfield's. The opinion is very long and Justice Scott expresses his hope that the Appellate Division will be called on to pass upon the many points of law involved. Lewisohn's attorney, Alfred Lauterbach, says it will be.

Justice Scott says, on the main questions whether Section 342 of the Code, which makes it mandatory for a witness to answer in such a proceeding and provides for his immunity from punishment for the offences he confesses, is constitutional:

The Supreme Court of the United States has held that no statutes defeats the privilege to a witness of refusing to testify unless it affords absolute immunity against future prosecution for the offence to which the question relates. The reasoning by which the Court arrives at this conclusion is very persuasive, but as it is in direct conflict with the law of this State as declared by the Court of Appeals, it is not controlling upon this court unless the relator is entitled to take refuge cehind the Federal Constitution as well as our own.

refuge cehind the Federal Constitution as well as our own.

The clause exempting a witness from furnishing evidence against himself is to be found in the Fifth Amendment to the Federal Constitution. It is quite well settled that the first ten Amendments to the Constitution contained no restrictions upon the powers of the State, but were intended solely to operate upon the Federal Government. The relator, therefore, can claim no immunity under the Federal Constitution unless the Fifth Amendment has been extended in its scope to cover the case of a witness called to answer before a State Magistrate pursuing an inquiry under a State law.

"What position does Lewisohn now oc-

"What position does Lewisohn now oc-cupy?" District Attorney Jerome was asked. "He is in the custody of his counsel until the time of the entering of the order on this decision.

"As soon as the order is entered, probably to-morrow, he will be in the custody of Policeman Gannon on the warrant for misdemeanor issued by Justice Wyatt when Lewisohn refused to answer. He can give bail until the trial of the misdemeanor charges."

bail until the trial of the misdemeanor charges."

Lewisohn must be tried in the Special Sessions, it was said, on these charges.

Mr. Jerome didn't say that Lewisohn would have actually to go to jail in order to get the Appellate Division to consider the questions involved, but he said that Lewisohn would have to be at least formally in custody because the Appellate Division is not deciding academic questions.

The District Attorney and his staff concluded that an appeal wouldn't act as a stay upon the Canfield inquiry, which may be resumed to-day. The only thing Lewisohn could do they said, would be to apply for a writ of prohibition, on the ground that the proceedings were not lawful. They didn't think one Supreme Court Justice would reverse another on this point.

Mr. Lauterbach said that the filing of appeal papers will act as a stay and that such papers will be filed unless it is decided to ion that gambling is going on on any prem ises. Upon such a warrant entry may be made by force if it cannot be obtained peace-ably. An Assistant District Attorney said that he had doubts of the constitutionality of this provision of the Charter.

Mr. Jerome went to Police Headquarters vesterday and looked over some faro boxes. He said that he saw half a dozen of them and that each was "straight." When he got to the Criminal Courts Building, however, he exhibited a "brace" faro box and a deck of "shaved" cards. He said that three out of four boxes he had examined after "the raids" he had found to be "crooked." He gave the impression that he referred to the last raids, when descents ware made upon Confedd's Rubbidate. he referred to the last raids, when descents were made upon Canfield's, Burbridge's and Lou Ludlam's. Nothing was found at Ludlam's. Mr. Jerome's manner also inti-mated that the four boxes were found at one house.

"Was that house Canfield's?" he was asked.

"I didn't say so," he replied.
"Is it true that Canfield's four boxes were made of silver?" asked a reporter.
"There are some peculiar features about the boxes taken from Canfield's about which I do not care to speak," he replied.
"The crooked boxes were only used for suckers," he explained.

The case came up yesterday and Moynihan sauntered up to the Magistrate and said in a careless way: "Judge, if you'll parole me to-day I'll get out and raise that Magistrate Zeller angrily replied: "You niserable dog, didn't I forfeit your bond last Saturday for disrespect to this court? Now you have the effrontery to ask me to stand in with you while you try to square a crime. Under no circumstances will I parole you,

SHERIFF WANTS PATRONAGE.

O'BRIEN FIGHTING HIS ASSIST-ANT DEPUTY SHERIFFS,

Prison Keepers, Too-He Wants to Be Able to Turn Them Out at Will as Confidential Employees-They and the State Civil Service Commission Resist.

William J. O'Brien, the Central Federated Union member of Mayor Low's adminisration who got the fusion nomination for Sheriff of New York county because of his alleged labor following and who polled the lowest vote and won by the smallest plurality of all the fusion county canidates, is apparently making an effort to build up his party, and the State Civil Serice Commission objects to the method. Mr. O'Brien wants to get ten assistant deputy Sheriffs at $1,000 a year and five orison guards at from $1,200 to $1,500 into he exempt class and thus secure a little annual patronage of something like $15,000

When Mr. O'Brien took possession of his office he found that there were twelve assistant deputy Sheriffs in office. One of hem had been in since 1868. After looking over the list the new Sheriff became convinced that assistant deputy Sheriffs were confidential servants of his and ought ac-cordingly to be chosen by him without competitive examination. competitive examination.

One of the assistants got out after two weeks. Then Mr. O'Brien went right ahead and appointed a man of his own liking, Daniel D. Shine, who didn't have to pass any examination to get his job.

By and by the Sheriff made up his mind that he needed a new prison guard. He also concluded that the job of prison guard was confidential and appointed Hugh T. Foley without competitive examination.

About this time Assistant Deputy Sheriff Daniel D. Shine began to wonder how he was going to get any salary. When the payroll went before the State Civil Service Commission some one discovered that Mr.

payroll went before the State Civil service Commission some one discovered that Mr. Shine's name was not certified on the roll. The same thing happened later to Foley. Mr. O'Brien requested the commission to put the assistant deputy Sheriffs and the prison guards in the exempt class. The officers of the commission said they wouldn't.

Thereupon Shine applied to the Supreme

Thereupon Shine applied to the Supreme Court to compel the Civil Service Commission to put Shine's job in the exempt class. The case came up for argument yesterday before Justice Fitzgerald. An interesting part of the proceedings was the putting in of affidavits from all of the old assistant deputy Sheriffs who don't want to lose the protection of the Civil Service law. Each of these read in part as follows:

The Sheriff may, by means of the head-

Service law. Each of these read in part as follows:

The Sheriff may, by means of the bonds which he may require of any of the assistant deputy Sheriffs in his office, amply protect himself from any loss which may fall on him because of their malfeasance in office.

The statute under which the claim for exemption is made is unconstitutional and void.

The assistant deputy Sheriffs in the office of the Sheriff of New York county are not deputies of said Sheriff and do not act generally for and in place of said Sheriff in any way, but only on specific authorization in regard to particular matters.

Their work is not in any sense confidential, as they merely act as clerks and assistants to the deputy Sheriffs. They have no questions of discretion on which to pass: they at no time decide questions of the policy of the office. They come seldom in contact with and are in no close personal relation with the Sheriff, but deal always through the medium of the deputies. No papers are ever assigned to them for execution by the Sheriff.

Similar affidavits subscribed to by all

Similar affidavits subscribed to by all the old prison guards have also been drawn up in an application which Foley has made. When Shine's case came up, the com-mission and the incumbent assistant deputy Sheriffs were represented by lawyer

Delegations of the unions concerned n the strike called on Mr. Cantor yesterday and laid before him their grievances. Then they demanded that Matt Ryan, the fore man in charge of the City Hall work, should be discharged, that the plastering and other work done by non-union men during the two weeks of the strike should be torn out and that the strikers should be paid full wages for their two weeks' "play." Mr. Cantor, as arbitrator, listened to these demands and promised to consider them after he had talked with the contractors. That didn't suit the walking delegates at all. They told Mr. Cantor they were willing that he should arbitrate, but f he didn't arbitrate so as to give the unions all they wanted, he would hear from them. All the fuss has been made because Contractor Ryan, who is anxious to finish his City Hall job on time, went there a few Sundays ago and did some plastering himself. tween Contractor Ryan and a walking delegate in the corridor of the City Hall. Mr. Ryan accused E. Scally of the Marble and Slate Cutters' Union of making false statements to Mr. Cantor. Instantly there was an interchange of compliments that would not look well in print. Mr. Ryan invited Mr. Scully to step into one of the vacant rooms of the City Hall and argue the matter out there. Mr. Scully intimated that the vestibule of the City Hall was good enough for him and challenged Mr. Ryan to begin.

Mutual friends prevented blows. Scully finally was bustled out on the City Hall steps, but was followed by Ryan, who exclaimed. "Say, I'd like to meet, you and...."

can lind me at that time, sir."

"Damn your card," shouted Ryan and knocked it from Scully's hand, accompanying the action with words which, though unintelligible to bystanders, seemed to be understood by Scully. He made a rush at Ryan, but friends, who clasped their arms around him, bore him away.
